The importance of having a sound financial and administrative system for your First Nation is essential in ensuring good governance for future generations. As we develop effective policies, procedures and laws, we also need to think about building our governance structure on a solid foundation

It is critical that First Nations take the necessary steps to ensure management competencies in administration are balanced with in their communities.

This two day training conference will provide you with valuable information and tools to assist with the development of your management practices.

Don't miss this opportunity to hear success stories related to leadership and good management, as well as networking with professionals.
